

ISO 9001:2000 Certification for Vendigital Ltd

Vendigital is delighted to announce that we have successfully achieved registration to the BS EN ISO 9001:2000 standard.

This internationally recognised award for quality is an International Standard in use worldwide as a benchmark for Quality. The award recognises Vendigital's commitment to an exceptional quality of service.

"We recognise that the future success of Vendigital depends upon the products and services we supply continually meeting the requirements and expectations of our customers. The achievement of ISO 9001:2000 certification affirms our ongoing commitment to the quality of the products & services we provide to our clients" says Roy Williams, operations Director.

Client feedback is a key part of maintaining standards. We listen to our clients' needs very carefully and strive to develop our business in a way that meets them and allows us to help improve our clients' businesses. Please let us know how we are doing. We carry out regular satisfaction surveys and look forward to receiving your comments.

Vendigital is a procurement organisation specialised in delivering rapid reduction in procurement cost and supply chain risk, primarily for manufacturing companies. Vendigital's experienced procurement and sourcing team, when combined with their innovative technology delivers exceptional results that lead the market.

Vendigital is headquartered out of Swindon, UK with subsidiaries in Cologne, Germany, Chicago, USA and latterly in Hong Kong, China.

